

Mega-Ware Shopping Party to stimulate the local economy

Campbelltown Memorial Hall will be abuzz on Sunday 5 July with a bevy of locals experiencing a shopping extravaganza.

The Mega-Ware Shopping Party is the brain child of Sue Girardi, founder of Kick It To Me Personal Shopping.

"Gathering friends together and having a shopping party at home is becoming more and more popular" said Sue, "so we're taking that concept and putting these home shopping icons together, all under the same roof.

"How often do you get the chance to shop with home shopping greats such as Enjo, Tupperware, Intimo, and Le Reve, whilst grabbing a retail bargain from the exquisite lingerie selection of Simone Perele and Fifi Blue? We even have local favourite Great Southern Chocolates selling their home made delicacies which are normally only found in gourmet stores. There is definitely something for everyone!

"Women of all ages can stock up on their favourites without having to throw a home party themselves".

In addition to the 13 exhibitor stands, attendees can enjoy the onsite catering plus the first 100 tickets sold will receive a Free Mega-Ware Show Bag with exhibitor samples, items and special offers.

All in attendance will go in the running to win a Kick It To Me Personal Shopping Limousine Chauffeured Shopping Tour valued at $1800.

Tickets for the Mega-Ware Shopping Party are $5 each or 3 for $10 and must be purchased prior to the event – tickets will not be available on the door. For more information or to purchase a ticket visit www.megaware.eventbrite.com or phone Sue of Kick It To Me on 0438 204 074.
